1. What were the strongest points of the TA in discussion section or office hours?

UCI EEE Evaluations

Social Sciences TA Evaluation for Benson, Andrew Glen ECON 100A DIS B4 (62094), Fall Qtr 2016

- He prepares materials in discussion well.
 - Knowledgeable
 - No
 - patient
 - The TA was very approachable and was willing to take time to answer questions. The TA even made some of his own worksheets that helped to describe some material.
 - Very good at explaining
 - 16 blank answer(s).
2. Do you have any recommendations for your TA that would help that person be a more effective TA in the future?
- be more clear and speak louder
 - He still need to learn how to teach effectively.
 - No
 - Nothing you are a beast
 - One recommendation I have is to be more confident in discussion sections. Sometimes I would get confusing information from the TA's discussion section that would conflict with what the teacher was teaching.
 - Prepare before sections.
 - Use the same term as professor use to teach us
 - 15 blank answer(s).

1. What were the strongest points of the TA in discussion section or office hours?

- -Patient, good explanations
 - explaining step by step concepts
 - Friendly
 - He's kind and always wants to help and always happy to send emails for extra advice
 - He always try his best to explain thing.
 - He was especially helpful during office hours when he helped answer specific questions from lecture. Responsive to students and a good TA.
 - Office hours before tests were very helpful with him. The ways he showed how to answer questions was very easy to understand.
 - Responsive to students
 - The TA generally covered topics from lecture.
 - Very clear on all the concepts and very helpful on preparing for the exams
 - Very helpful in the ELC
 - went over examples
 - 12 blank answer(s).
2. Do you have any recommendations for your TA that would help that person be a more effective TA in the future?
- Be slower during discussion; leave time for review during discussoins
 - better markers
 - Discussion section material was a little confusing and I feel like he goes a little too fast. I suggest to lecture a litte bit slower and take your time to discuss the material step by step.
 - During discussion, I think it would be more useful to go over overarching concepts instead of doing one example the whole class time.
 - explain more clear
 - Nothing, Andrew is awesome
 - Perhaps explain things a bit better with more organization.
 - slow down when explaining
 - Some of what we learned on discussion is not the same as what we learn on lecture, making me feel confused sometimes.

1. What were the strongest points of the TA in discussion section or office hours?

- Always pay attention to students' questions and solve it patiently.
 - Andrew said that this quarter is his first one as a TA. Honestly, sometimes, he seemed to be confused of how to help us. Nonetheless, his discussion class is really really good enough to help us better understand and prepare for our exams. I believe that he is going to be chosen one of the best TAs in this course soon.
 - Be on time
 - Caring and patient.
 - he is glad to answer questions
 - He is responsible for every student.
 - Helpful.
 - interesting
 - it was fun to play some dice game to help understand the course
 - Speak very clear and the question examples easy to understand
 - Very patient to students.
 - 14 blank answer(s).
2. Do you have any recommendations for your TA that would help that person be a more effective TA in the future?
- getting better
 - give some study guide, review questions on book, or review point
 - Giving more examples that are related to the in class lecture. Maybe have similar questions like the examples that the professor gives in the PPT.
 - he is a good ta
 - I hope the pace of the discussion could be faster, so that we can practice more before the test since we have no sample tests to review.
 - make notes clearer
 - more prepared
 - Need more preparation.
 - no
 - No, but I really appreciate for his tremendous effort.
 - NO.
 - Teaching something that is useful to the examination, instead of talking everything that somewhat irrelevant.
 - 13 blank answer(s).

1. What were the strongest points of the TA in discussion section or office hours?

- a
 - Although we did not have a discussion for this course, the TA was extremely helpful and understood the material very well.
 - always send email to communicate with student, quick response by email for help. Very responsible.
 - Good TA as he helped us understand basic concepts about the homework assignment and prep us for information we need to study for.
 - He responded fast to any questions when emailing him
 - I have had Andrew as a TA since his first time teaching Econ 100A. He has become so good at teaching and will make a great professor someday. His knowledge continues to inspire me.
 - In office hours, TA demonstrates a clear understanding of the material and does his best to teach according to the professor's lectures.
 - Knows material really well.

 - Offer extra office hours to help students because we do not have discussion section for this class.
 - office hours very helpful
 - Organization
 - Providing explanations and diagrams
 - TA is always very well-prepared. He is passionate about the materials and discussions performed in class and outside of it as well.
 - The TA was great at helping students in his office hours.
 - Very organized

2. Do you have any recommendations for your TA that would help that person be a more effective TA in the future?
- b
 - Being available is the best way to give the most help to students. Thank you for opening us more time to allow students to pick up tests.
 - Either have people find their own test or go through the class and ask for names of each student then find their test rather than calling out the name for every single test especially when theres only 20 people in OH.
 - Harsh grading on a course that did not have discussions. TA did not offer any materials to help students.
 - He could be a little lose on being so strict on students to give more friendly environment.
 - His grading is too harsh to hurt the grade
 - Hold actual discussion classes?
 - I appreciate you trying to help us during final week.
 - Inconsistent grading. I would work with my peers to complete homework questions and for the most part have the same answers and yet we would be graded differently. So maybe to grade more consistently.

- No
- No, because we didnt really have a discussion section to go to.
- Perhaps i would have one if i would have seen him more, but i only met with him once.
- The TA is very harsh on grading and is not willing to give partial credit for an answer that is half-right. I would recommend the TA to be more open minded and to not be as harsh on grading. He even said himself that he is “stingy” with points. I do not think that is professional.

1. What were the strongest points of the TA in discussion section or office hours?

 - Able to clear any concepts that were confusing and knew the material well.
 - Andrew was clear and concise during discussions. Clarified material very well and had a good control over the classroom. It makes a big difference when a teacher is willing to speak up and ask disruptive students to quiet down so the rest of us can learn and pay attention. Originally attended a different discussion, but switched over to Andrew's and preferred it significantly more.
 - best TA for the Econ100A Much more better than the professor
 - clear class
 - clear explanations of the concepts with visuals and responsive to those with questions
 - Everything is great
 - focusing on lecture materials
 - GJ
 - got straight to the point
 - He clarified the lectures from professor.
 - He does pay attention on our questions.
 - He had worksheets, and wrote down anything we need to know for doing the worksheet.
 - He has the good lecture for the practice problem in this discussion.
 - he is good
 - He was very informative.
 - He went into detail on what we learned in class to better our understanding of the material.
 - He would go over an example of the material that was taught and he was detailed despite the lack of time. He was also clear and direct.
 - I do not know.
 - Knew their stuff
 - n/a
 - ok
 - practice
 - Talking about the difficult points before giving out the worksheet.
 - The TA was very helpful and provided us examples on how to solve a problem.
 - Very patient when Im confused about some problems
 - Very willing to help students and very attentive to people who were raising their hands. Also very good at explaining concepts when asked from what I see.
 - Willing to help every student with questions
 - worksheet
 - Worksheets, he helped me learn the stuff she didnt teach :D.

 - going over the worksheet at the end of the discussion session so students could check if they knew how to correctly solve the problems
 - good dis
 - he can be more patient
 - He can spend more time on expanding the worksheet afterwards
 - He can talk about the knowledge more.
 - He is a terrible teacher.

- help us solve homework question
- I am not sure if the professor required it, but I would like the class to be more interactive rather than be handed a worksheet and be left alone for 50 minutes. It doesn't really offer a student any incentive other than to be forced to come for attendance if the solutions will be posted online after.
- Keep working, you are already great!
- make the worksheets a but more clear
- Maybe a little more test prep in discussions before tests? That would be more beneficial than doing a worksheet that week for material that isnt on the test.

1. What were the strongest points of the TA in discussion section or office hours?

- Answered student's question's the best he could. Used interesting videos/games to teach topics.
 - Benson is among the best TA i had so far during university life. He carefully read and replied my email very clear and provided as many information as he could, which i barely seen from other TA. He listened to us and tried his best to help us out. He even spend more time after the discussion for us if there is any unclear information we need to get the answer. Overall, best TA.
 - BEST TA EVER !!!
 - Clearly state what we have learned in lectures
 - emphasis on interactions.
 - Explaining concepts
 - Funny and interesting class
 - good
 - good speaking
 - he always asked us if we had questions and encouraged participation
 - He always responds to emails on time and cares about his students.
 - He is a thoughtful person. He always tries to help students. Also, he prepared many activities in the discussion section. That was helpful to understand the topic.
 - He really cares what we are lack of and tries to help in every way. And he comes to class prepared.
 - He tried to use some interesting ways like games to learn about subjects. It was helpful to understand.
 - His grading is not tough at all, and I hope that he can keep it to grade out final exam. He would hold some little games in class which were really interesting.
 - None
 - Responsible
 - Was very helpful in explaining the main points of the readings that the professor assigned.
 - 30 blank answer(s).
2. Do you have any recommendations for your TA that would help that person be a more effective TA in the future?
- :)
 - give students some opportunities to discuss in discussion
 - goes very fast during discussion. need to aim time more towards going over lecture and readings, not games. lectures and discussion never really correlated. study guides should be more accurate
 - He could go over slides a little more slowly so that students could fully read them.
 - Hes good enough
 - I hope he can talk slower and try to give more examples to explain the course material.
 - In the discussion class, there were a lot of international students who usually struggle with vocabularies of political science. He explained the vocabularies in easy words at first discussion class. It was so helpful to understand the subject. It would be great if he mentions the terms with easy words.
 - I really don't have any. Chill TA
 - more activities during the class
 - nah
 - no
 - None
 - We were shown some videos about topics that the TA didn't think would be on the exam. He should show videos that he does think would be on the exam.

1. What were the strongest points of the TA in discussion section or office hours?

- Confident in his teaching.
 - Did many examples
 - everything is great.
 - Explained emailed and went through them. Quizzes went over relevant material
 - Explained things that weren't clear on the Lecture and Homework.
 - Good examples.
 - he is good.
 - Help use understand what the lecturer couldnt, while guiding us on what will be on the test.
 - He picks out what's important and relate that to the students, which was helpful.
 - He was to the point and only gave us information we needed to know.
 - Knowledgeable of the important points for exams and convey the concets clearly to students.
 - Knowledgeable about course material. Showed us how to do the mathematical part of the course.
 - Our TA was very knowledgeable with the material and his examples were very detailed.
 - patience
 - Quizzes are straightforward
 - responsible
 - T.A. went over hard topics from the hw and practice.

2. Do you have any recommendations for your TA that would help that person be a more effective TA in the future?
- Be more organized
 - Critics: Tests/quizzes were hard, a lot of calculus was used on quizzes but not on the actual mid-terms or tests, he likes to skip a lot of steps (thinking we already know how to do it), goes through example problems fast, and quizzes were surprising in regards to material tested on.
 - Don't assume students are on a certain level of education, instead think of everyone on a lower level than expected to ensure better understanding.
 - Have more practice from the hw.
 - I won't
 - just keep it up.
 - Made the discussion tests pretty difficult
 - Make sure quizzes are directly related to course material learned that day. If not that day, then let us know what it's about ahead of time so we can prepare.
 - No
 - No

 - Simpler explanations?
 - talk more about exam

- Why make the quiz so hard after the Midterm???? In my friends' Monday section, everyone gets full credit for participation. After the Midterm, your quizzes had almost no relation to what you talked about and so many questions of them were super hard! It's not fair that students in our section worked harder and followed your teaching pace but got lower scores than others who do not need to pay too much attention to discussions. You should do something to balance our scores, compared to the score in other discussion sections.

1. What were the strongest points of the TA in discussion section or office hours?

- Always willing to help students and make extra time to meet with them
 - Clear
 - discussion of homework assignments and prep for exams
 - Explains everything very clearly and always goes above and beyond when helping people
 - extremely responsible!!!!
 - he is active and take responsibility
 - he takes really good care to whoever comes to ask questions
 - He was very good in helping for the homework
 - His ability to simply explain step by step how to solve problems not just a specific one but in general
 - I didn't see any strong points.
 - My TA really cared about the environment and he knows a lot of chemistry behind it. Hes a nice guy. I can tell hes trying. But if hes going to give us homework thats worth 15 percent, about chemistry and unrelated to the concept of lecture. He should teach us how to solve it and not waste our time doing the homework, thats not going to be on the exam. What im saying is, his homework should be based on the effectiveness of his teaching during discussion. He needs to go teach the material if hes going to give us homework on it.

2. Do you have any recommendations for your TA that would help that person be a more effective TA in the future?
- As far as it goes for the homework it was non related to the lecture content and too long for its actual weight on the final grade.
 - Change the homework
 - Create homework assignments that are actually relevant to the class syllabus, do not change the professor's exams in the interests of straying from the content taught in class, do not mix students exam grades and then upload them without double checking.
 - Do not post the hardest homework.
 - Explain and teach students the material necessary to pass the class rather than just writing problems and answering them on the board. Also, create homework that will prepare us for the test.
 - He makes the exam too tricky and changes the original version of midterm from the professor.
 - he needs go straight to explanation, not just give hint and go around to give answer
 - He needs to stop acting like he's the professor in lecture and in discussion. When the professor is lecturing, Andrew shouldn't interrupt to correct him. I find that very disrespectful. He needs to stop being bossy with the students and including the professor. For example, I witnessed Andrew telling the professor to start the class in a rude way, everyone was shocked because he raised his voice at him. The professor was only waiting for 3 mins for any late comers and for some students to settled in to start the lecture. Andrew needs to work on being more welcoming because his ugly attitude makes it hard to approach for help.

- Hm let's see. 1) Use discussion as a means to prepare students for the midterm/final and help students review material they are unclear with, instead of having fun at home creating useless 8-10 hours long, difficult homeworks for students that are NOT on the midterm or final exam. Having 5% of it be on the exams and then having the extremely long hw due ONE lecture before the exam is ludicrous. If you're going to be sadistic, at least be somewhat reasonable and make it due a week beforehand so people actually have time to study. No wonder the midterm scores were terrible. I got a very high score on the midterm, but that's not the point and the HW was not helpful at all. The HW was basically bitch work that was a waste of everyone's time and took away time from students being able to study. 2) Don't be a dick and change questions/answers and make them ridiculously hard on the midterm to the point only FOUR (or six, don't quite remember) out of 75 students get that question right, especially (?) without the professor's consent. When this topic was brought up in the next lecture, the professor seemed genuinely confused and said that the TA told the professor in an email that he'd be making "syntax"/"English" revisions to the midterm. Yeah, sure. The professor even continuously reassured the class after that the TA would not be able to touch the questions on the final created by the professor. Like seriously? How the hell do you not have anything better to do as a PHD student? 3) Admit that you screwed up on these stupid homeworks instead of trying to save face last minute by replacing the professor's extra credit questions on the final with YOUR dumb homeworks, just so we "can't say that the midterm/finals were not related to the homeworks and give me a terrible review." Seriously? Your homework isn't related to the class. You ARBITRARILY made it related to the class in an effort to make your reviews less negative. Additionally, I'm 100% sure the revised extra credit questions are going to be way more difficult than the extra credit questions the professor originally intended to have us do. I would bet $1 trillion dollars on that if I could. So in the end, you're screwing us over AGAIN. If anything, this review is much worse because the TA refused to just admit that maybe the homeworks weren't so useful after all, but remained stubborn until the very end and screwed us over not once but twice. 4) Talking about screwing us over. Another recommendation would be to do YOUR job properly instead of wasting time dicking around and making students' lives miserable. Over half of the discussion time is spent talking about topics that are NOT relevant to lecture at all or the exams, or reviewing the homework which is also NOT relevant to the class/exams. You're a teaching assistant. Nobody cares if you thought excess relative risk was an important part of Chapter x that was not included in the book or lecture, so you arbitrarily decided to put it on the homework in a 10-week course that goes by extremely fast and waste valuable discussion time. Instead of dicking around like that, how about making sure that the gradebooks are correct? This was the first time (that I know of) where a TA screwed up the midterm grades. THIRTEEN out of seventy-five students had their midterm grades swapped with someone else's. This caused extreme, unnecessary stress on those 13 students. Some people got much lower grades than they got, and thus were extremely stressed out about it. And some people got extremely high grades initially in their gradebook, only to realize a week later that they got possibly 1-4 letter grades lower. I was pretty upset about receiving my initial score (which was fairly low) and thought I had done a good amount better than that. It stressed me out a lot since I'm trying to maintain a high GPA for grad school, and doing "poorly" on a midterm that I studied hard for and thought I did fairly alright on was demoralizing. Fortunately, some student caught the mistake in office hours and the scores were corrected, with my new score being a lot higher. If that student hadn't come to office hours, it's completely plausible that the mistake would have went by unnoticed and some people would have been extremely screwed over while those who did not study at all could have gotten very good grades that they did not earn. This is seriously the biggest screw-up a TA could do. I honestly wouldn't even be even 5% as mad if the TA were actually genuinely trying to help the students out in discussion, very helpful (like some of my other TAs), and made an honest mistake. In fact, I wouldn't be mad at the TA AT ALL. I'm only pissed off because the TA blatantly wastes our study time, wastes our discussion times, dicking around creating insanely long homework that's useless which also probably took hours and hours of his own time that he could have used to do his job properly, etc. Yeah, too busy screwing us over to make sure our grades are correct. Wonderful. Teaching at its finest.

- Integrate the lecture and discussion!
- I would make the homework a bit more relevant to the lecture and exam content
- Made the test more difficult on purpose. Homework was extremely difficult and did not correlate with the lectures.
- make easier test questions
- make the homework more coherent to help student prepare for the exams.
- The homework is unnecessarily hard
- The ta did more teaching than the teacher. So it made the class objectives and dynamics kind of awkward
- to optimaize time and important materials
- try and integrate the material and the homework more along the lines of the professors lecturing
- try not to focus a lot on non relevant details that only cast doubts and create confusion, in addition try to not create too interpretative discussion on questions
- Try to relate homework to the lecture, even through lectures weren't super efficient or helpful it would've been nice to have discussion go over concepts and math that was shown in class instead of work that didn't really relate to what was in the textbook
- Why make the material harder for students! The curriculum you taught did not match with the professors. A majority of the class did not like the homework

1. What were the strongest points of the TA in discussion section or office hours?

- Andrew knows so much about this topic and often times jumps in during lecture to explain something. This is where I learned the most I'd say because the instructor is very bad at explaining topics. Also, anytime I had a question if I asked Andrew he'd help me understand it 100%. He was very open to being asked questions and helping out, and would always give a very straightforward and accurate answer (one time I sat in his office for about an hour to learn something and I did my own work while he did his own).
 - didn't have a scheduled discussion
 - N/A
 - Thanks for working with me and my colorblindness.
 - There was no discussion for ECON 143, so the TA was present during all lectures. He was very knowledgeable on the subject matter and it sometimes felt like he knew more about energy economics than our professor

2. Do you have any recommendations for your TA that would help that person be a more effective TA in the future?

1. What were the strongest points of the TA in discussion section or office hours?

- always ready to help students, great communicator despite possible lacking in knowledge of topic.
- Andrew is a very intelligent and hard-working PhD candidate. Even though the materials for this course was well out of his expertise, it was very evident that he worked hard to be as informative as possible. He also gave us many resources to work with.
- Andrew made the most out of his TA experience even though he didn't have much choice in which class he TA'd and he tried to help as best as he could. He tried to help with the homework when he could.
- Arguably one of the best TAs that I ever have. Andrew is friendly and always want to help us succeed in the class. He would hold out extra office hours even though he don't have too. Andrew is an amazing TA and I am glad that he was my TA.
- came prepared with notes and listened to the student's needs
- clear explanation for things i did not understand, very patient and kind
- Everything
- He clarified his presentations in his discussions sections
- He goes over similar problems for the exam and goes over midterm sample.
- He helped us find easier ways to solve things than the professor used.
- He made it tailored to what the students actually needed help with
- He was able to integrate course material and answer students questions and concerns He also took into account students opinions and made clear presentations to make it easier for us to understand the concepts
- He was extremely helpful and gave different ways to do things
- He was very clear and concise with his instruction.
- how he taught the materials. he would find any other way to make the students understand
- I admire Andrew's effort in this course. Even though he is not well versed in business forecasting, I appreciate the fact that he takes the time to sit in lecture and ask for the professor to clarify when she is confusing.
- I liked how he was honest about not asking to be a TA for this course lmaoooo he didn't even know how to use the software beforehand poor man.
- Knowledgable.
- Knowledge of the material and showing examples
- n/a
- N/A
- N/a
- No idea. Never went.
- Put in a lot of effort for a class he was unfamiliar with, helped with certain HW or midterm reviews
- TA is willing to explain homework problems in details along with his own examples to help us understand important concepts
- TA was always willing to help out during discussion and in emails. Gave us helpful tips for tests and encouraged us to practice problems to understand class better.
- Teaching us tips and tricks that the Professor didn't go through were helpful. Presentations were clear and concise
- the TA actively answer students' question
- This man didnt know a lot going into the class, but once he figured it out he really helped with the content. He made confusing concepts easier to understand.
- This TA was SO helpful. I love this guy, always responsive to emails, and willing to meet with students. He was very approachable, and resourceful. This guy man, so cute too (in a cute baby way), looks like a cute little white wabbit.

- Took time to learn material
 - Very organized and willing to help/teach
 - Well prepared for discussion sections Very helpful and nice
 - Your different perspective of the same material was helpful and I especially appreciated how much information you provided.
 - 45 blank answer(s).
2. Do you have any recommendations for your TA that would help that person be a more effective TA in the future?
- he is the best!
 - I do not consider him a bad TA, however, this shouldnt have been a course that he was assigned to because he did not know the material. He was learning the material just like us as the professor taught us. In my opinion, going to discussions, we hope that our TA can help us with the course materials expecting and believing that the TA is familiar with it or at least more familiar than us. I sometimes found going to discussion a waste of time. Not a problem of the TA, I just think that the course was not a fit for him.
 - It is clearly evident that he is knowledgeable, but his obsession with being the most precise with his word choices as he can makes his explanations extremely long and convoluted at times. Though that type of communication might be fruitful with his PhD colleagues, the average unmotivated undergrads will not be able to follow what he is trying to say. Being short and straight to the point with his claims and explanations would benefit him for being a TA in his future classes. Thanks Andrew!
 - I would be wary of interrupting the instructor in front of students - it disrupts the class and could effect student's opinions of her authority.
 - I would recommend being more sure about whether his directions are correct in discussion or send out emails about his mistakes if there are any.
 - I would say to just interpret the way you want to do it and teach it to the students if you think its easier than originally taught.
 - Keep it up, hopefully you can land the class you want next quarter
 - Maybe do the survey you did in the middle of the quarter like week 3 instead
 - Maybe focus more on the test-preparation and what students need to do instead of introducing more advanced knowledge.

 - Not much he is a pro
 - One thing that sucked, was that he made rules as to what you could email him about. Overall, I think he did a pretty good job!
 - Please go over material thoroughly. The fact that I dint show up afterwards to the discussion sections, because he was not able to clear my doubts, also did not respond to my email, for the final.

- Probably should do more emphasis on the multiplier effect
- Start to help students through email a bit more.
- TA expressed disappointment in his placement in this course and therefore lacked information on the course and programs needed in the course. If the TA could show more enthusiasm, students will be more likely to study harder. Expressing disappointment with his placement of the current course in the first discussion section should not occur ever again.
- the TA is not organized for the discussion section. Many classmates get confused.
- Worst TA for this class ever. He didn't even want to teach it, and doesn't care about the course.

1. What were the strongest points of the TA in discussion section or office hours?

- Able to explain materials clearly. Willingness to help. One of the best TA's I have had in this school.
- Absolutely amazing TA. Very knowledgeable and very helpful. Wished I had him for every course. The 7s I gave him were definitely well-deserved!
- Andrew was readily able to answer our questions! He was very accessible, understandable, and clear with his explanations. It was a pleasure to have Andrew as my TA!
- He answered students' questions quickly by using the discord channel.
- He was very helpful and provided a different avenue to provide help and was there when the students needed extra help. He also discussed student concerns with the professor.
- He was very responsive, I don't think he missed any questions directed to him, he even created a discord server to make it easier for everyone to contact him and for him to reply to any questions in real-time, among the best TA's (if not the best) I have had the pleasure to have.
- He was very responsive and clear in his discussion sections. He really strives on making sure students aren't left in the dark with the material.
- His availability and knowledge
- I've had Andrew as my TA for all three quarters this year, and in every single course I had him, his discussion sections and office hours were extremely useful. He is very resourceful, and he is more than willing to work out any problems with you. It is evident that he puts a lot of effort in being a wonderful TA. He is always ready to answer any questions, and that felt especially reassuring with so many uncertainties and unknowns in a fully remote academic setting.
- I would say this TA is probably the best TA I have ever had in any class in college. This TA's strongest points are that he was responsive; he would response to every question about anything, he was very helpful for the homeworks. especially in the discussions, he made amazing examples to help understand the material and the homework, he made it very clear he cares about the students understanding and want all students to succeed as he really makes himself available pretty much every day this quarter making it very easy to receive help for anything needed and this TA just really went the extra mile with things he did, like helping prepare for the exams and he even helped to set up a easy excel table to calculate grades to make students easily understand their situation and if they should maybe change to pass or fail for the grading. It is incredible to have such a helpful TA in the situations of a pandemic and other events and he was just amazing for helping in this pandemic. I think he took an awful situation and showed his true abilities as a TA with great success in this pandemic. I do not know how he was able to work through it with how many questions came his way, but he seemed to answer them all and still make sure to go an extra step every moment to make he was not just solving a question, but also helping everyone truly understand the question and how to work them out. He did a great job and anyone having him as a TA in the future are very lucky.
- Kind
- Making himself available for contact at practically all hours of the day. He communicates excellently with students and provides resources to make learning easier. He went above and beyond.
- nice and patient
- respond fast and clearly
- TA Benson made a Discord server where we could post questions and comments, in addition to meeting up with other students and working together. It definitely helped a lot in terms of better understanding the material and connecting with students in the same, or similar majors. It meant that Benson was almost always available and he always gave thoughtful and helpful responses.
- TA Benson was more than happy to meet and talk to students outside of discussion section or office hours, even late at night. He is an advocate for students, which everyone appreciates.

- The Discord server was really really helpful, as it gave us real-time responses and help. It was also useful for students to discuss with and help others.
 - The T.A. is very patient and his instructions are very clear.
 - The TA explained complicated stata stuff and was very understanding. His discussions were helpful to do the homework since he showed how to use stata and what the concepts meant. He is helpful and kind. Thank you.
 - This is one of the best TAs I have ever had the pleasure of learning under. Andrew was always active and present in the discord whenever he was needed. I felt like he really cared about the students and being there for us when we needed him to explain the complicated program that STATA is. He really worked with us and I really appreciate that. I also feel like he was a great facilitator between the students and the professor and I am glad that he was our TA this quarter.
 - Very easily accessible and helpful on Discord. Assisted and clarified lots of problems that the class had in a prompt manner throughout the course. Discussion section were responsive to student feedback and clarified difficult topics from lecture.
 - Very good examples given in discussion, more in-depth compared to lectures. Very helpful outside of class, on Discord especially.
 - 20 blank answer(s).
2. Do you have any recommendations for your TA that would help that person be a more effective TA in the future?
- be more prepared and explain more detailed
 - Considering the current situations that we find ourselves in, I do not think I can make any recommendations (maybe obtaining a better microphone but that's not necessarily a recommendation more of a suggestion.)
 - Honestly, no I do not have any recommendations as he did an amazing job and really the only thing I think I can say is to keep doing what he did this quarter as it was very helpful and students will be glad to have a great TA that truly understands the material and goes the extra step to help make sure everyone has a great understanding.
 - I can't think of any.
 - I have no recommendations, Andrew was a great TA who came prepared and was consistently available within reasonable times everyday.
 - I remember that there were a couple of times where Andrew's command lines didn't really follow through on the Stata output and I got a little lost. However, this didn't really impact the discussion that much as Andrew was a great TA and was still able to help and explain the concepts very well!
 - I would say pay attention to the lectures more often so you can help students with lecture material. Also, sometimes discussion material can be kind of chaotic. Follow the discussion agenda more clearly and write the do-file beforehand so you can follow along.
 - Keep some form of online access (Discord, Piazza, etc.) even outside of courses affected by COVID. The online accessibility really helps the class.
 - No

 - No, his formatting of discussion is perfect!
 - No, very good overall.
 - none
 - No need for improvement.
 - Not so much on the TA, but better communication from the professor through the TA to students would be much more helpful. Some questions from the students cannot solely be answered by the TA (like grading options) so I feel that it would be more helpful if the professor and TA were more on the same page.

Departments and Instructors find students' written comments the most valuable element of course evaluations. Your evaluations are anonymous and not available until grades are posted.

Your feedback is important and matters. To help faculty get the most out of your feedback, please keep the following in mind:

*Specific constructive suggestions that focus on your learning and instructional choices are central to your feedback. Offer examples when needed – both positive and negative.

*Remember that you are writing to your instructor. When providing constructive feedback, be professional and respectful. Do not use offensive language or labels.

*Comments that are not related to your learning diminish the value of your feedback. For example, it is not helpful to comment upon an instructor's appearance or to include personal insults in your feedback.

Please compare this teaching assistant with others who have been your T.A. for courses taken at UCI. If a question does not apply to this course, choose the "0" or "Not Applicable" answer. All answers are anonymous.

COMMENTS

Question #11 • Text Response • 7 responses (37%)

What were the strongest points of the TA in discussion section or office hours?

Results:

- This TA immediately communicated with students to determine their best way of communicating questions and has always been able to answer questions quickly. The TA was able to break down topics in class that were mostly skipped over and crucial to understanding the homework. Discussion sections were clear, concise, and straight to the point which helped immensely while studying. Definitely a TA that I would recommend.
- Helping clarify some of the tough, confusing material. Assistance with homework. Some classes' discussion sections seem very pointless, but not for this class. I think the TA did an excellent job.
- Be responsible for student. Once I encounter unsaved problems in Midterm and he patiently listen to my explanation and help me figure it out.
- He is well prepared for the section and he is knowledgeable on the course materials.
- Very good at providing examples on how to work out the homework.
- How easily information was presented.
- Good explanation on course material

Question #12 • Text Response • 6 responses (32%)

Do you have any recommendations for your TA that would help that person be a more effective TA in the future?

Results:

- It's probably kind of hard to teach a dead class, so I really can't fault the TA on anything.
- His discussions were not 100% helpful for the homework.
- He is great.
- N/A
- No
